~~Bullets—swiftbullets~~

In 2012, Swift introduced its new “Lever Action Series.” These new bullets are a re-configured A-Frame design. This new design allows the bullet to open up at very low velocities (1200 fps), which is critical in these slow moving cartridges. On the high end of the velocity scale the bullet functions well up to approximately 2700 fps.

Bullet selection will be the most important decision you will have to make. If the bullet doesn't function properly, everything that you've invested in for your hunt, i.e. gear, optics, rifle, etc., is for naught. Swift has made and offered the finest hunting projectiles in A-Frame®, Scirocco®, and Break-Away® for over 30 years.

Further testing and bullet refinement led to what was to become known as the A-Frame®, with a copper-jacketed and bonded core design. The A-Frame® bullet became a commercial offering in 1984, when Swift placed a small ad in Shotgun News to begin selling bullets through the mail. As sales grew, a punch press was purchased and production

I'm not sure Swift has a reloading book. I would use the 130 grain swift bullet loaded just like any other 130 grain bullet in your .270 and the 210 grain swift should be loaded just like any other 210 grain bullet in the .338. Always back off 5% and work back again.
